Setting the standard, inspiring our team. Can you bring new energy to a well-established HSEQ culture?

What will you be doing?

Working in the downstream energy sector, this role will directly assist the BPA Leadership Team shape our Health, Safety, Environment and Quality (HSEQ) strategic agenda. Leading a small team, you will develop our HSEQ plans, administer the company's (HSEQ) Management systems, streamlining management reporting, while ensuring our system accreditations are maintained.

You will provide HSEQ support and technical expertise, developing and promoting a positive Health & Safety culture and setting standards across all areas of the business.

What do we need from you?

- A passion for developing a positive HSEQ culture and improving the systems and processes that support it.
- A comprehensive knowledge of HSEQ legislation.
- A high degree of knowledge and experience of HSEQ management systems, standards, and policies – particularly ISO accreditations.
- Demonstrable experience in a relevant health and safety role, probably in a technical business environment, (e.g. in an operations, manufacturing or production environment).
- Strong personal and safety leadership skills with a positive, can-do attitude, focused on looking for solutions – both in the office and in field environments.
- Commitment to personal growth and development. Pursuing relevant qualification across all HSEQ disciplines.
- Line Management experience would help as you will head a small team.

What else?

The role is busy and varied but the rewards, training and development opportunities are great!

BPA recognise that improving our business performance depends on an increasingly diverse team, valuing you for your attitude and abilities over any other background attribute and as a technical business, we are particularly interested to even our gender mix and encourage female applicants.

We recognise that everyone is different, and we aim to provide a working environment where each person feels respected, valued, and able to achieve their full potential. We also recognise the importance of work/life balance offering flexible working arrangements wherever it's possible.
